About

Yiu-Wing Leung received his B.Sc. and Ph.D. degrees from the Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong. Now he is Professor of Computer Science in the Hong Kong Baptist University, Hong Kong.

On the teaching side, he has rich experience in university teaching and curriculum design. In particular, he co-founded the MSc in IT Management programme, and he has been serving as the Programme Director for the MSc in IT Management programme and the MSc in Data Analytics and Artificial Intelligence programme. He has received several teaching awards, including the President's Award for Outstanding Performance in Teaching.

On the research side, he has been working on networking (including wireless networks, Internet and cloud computing, multimedia networks and optical networks) and systems engineering (including evolutionary computing and optimization). He has published more than 100 research papers in these areas. His name is listed in the "Top 2% most-cited scientists in the world" by Stanford University.

Research Interests

- Networking
- Internet Systems and Applications
- Cybernetics and system engineering
